

MYANMAR Accedes to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD)

Myanmar acceded to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD) on 7 December 2011.

With this latest accession, Myanmar has now become a State Party to three major conventions on human rights, namely, the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC), the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD).
